Past experience, has clearly shown that the current sewerage system cannot cope with existing demand, let alone added pressure from new developments. The plan does not accommodate for a proper upgraded system being put in place prior to any further development in order to avoid further pollution that would inevitably come about if the developments happen before any change to the present system. The current system clearly does not work as we have seen pollution in the harbour (as well as in Thorney and along the coast), harming wildlife and undermining a key principle of the plan. It is dangerous to suggest that the current system could cope without a significant upgrade. The issue here is not that this will be evaluated before the development but rather that continuing with the current system is even being considered in the first place.

What improvements or modifications would you suggest?

The issue with sewerage clearly needs to be discussed and solved before any new developments proceed. It is concerning to many residents, as some fear the water board will just pick the easy route out and continue with developments without adapting the sewerage system properly.
