

To whom it may concern May 26th

I simply cannot believe the insane drive to fill in every piece of land between Fishbourne and Emsworth. The A259 has become a nightmare due to congestion and the incredible speeds of the cars and motorbikes that clog up this once quiet road. The shops are heaving, and the infrastructure cannot cope with parking becoming extremely dangerous at local stores. The roads themselves are in a terrible condition no doubt exacerbated by the increase in traffic. I would hope that the present residents will have their views listened to and those who have the power to a halt the ever increasing developments, will do so. Is there a plan to build a relief road along the A259, so cars do not need to travel the whole distance to exit onto the A27? Probably not as common sense seems to have gone AWOL. I also feel for the residents of Chichester who are also swamped with new developments. Shame on those who have allowed this to happen, and those who have made lots of money out of selling prime building land, have played their part in destroying this once beautiful part of the country.
